Pass Almost Unnoticed In Battered Capital Of Japan, Says Robertson

MILES OF RUINS ARE WITNESSED

(Editor's Note: Japan's Domei news agency at 7:06 A. M. EWT in a broadcast to the United States asked the federal communications commission to relay the following copy to International News Service from its veteran correspondent, Frank Robertson, Tokyo radio said Robertson was the first allied newsmen to enter Tokyo.

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
TOKYO, Aug. 30.—War correspondents were the first allies to enter the war shattered city of Tokyo this morning and they were allowed to pass almost unnoticed by the inhabitants of this unhappy city.

I and three other war reporters drove by the imperial palace, chattered with the manager of the partly damaged Imperial hotel, were received affably by the president of Domei and inspected their news room and met the director of the foreign bureau of radio Tokyo.

I left Atsugi this morning in a battered sedan in an attempt to reach the capital. The guards saluted smartly at first but as we got away from the airfield area they either turned their backs or stared stonily. None of us felt too cheerful.

PA NEWC Observes

Hot? Just think of those long weeks of last winter when snow three and four feet deep covered the city. That should cool you off a little!

Pa Newc is in receipt of a communication from Mrs. William Sprinker, Wampum, in which it is suggested that a reminder be given to people of the community to put water out for the birds and dogs these hot days, especially for dogs that are tied. She says "I have been doing this and one is surely rewarded for the little trouble it takes in seeing how they enjoy it and how much is consumed."

In another note to Pa Newc the following observation is made: "Pa Newc could have heard an unusual sound from the downtown section, emanating from the west, during the early morning calm, prominently at 6 a. m.—a rooster crowing."

Noted along a street in the city today was an early sign of fall— one citizen was burning a pile of leaves that had been raked off the yard.

Apparently no special program for observance of Labor Day has been arranged in New Castle this year. The usual labor program was omitted during the war years, and the sudden closing of the war this month left no time for peacetime arrangements for Monday.

President Truman has ordered resumption of voluntary enlistment in the armed forces, it is announced from Washington. Such enlistments were suspended on December 5, 1942. The order revokes the suspension with a view to adding to military forces during the period they are needed for occupation of Germany and Japan.

Holiday Lights To Shine Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS)—The lights will go on again on Christmas trees throughout the nation this year.
There will be a supply of Christmas tree bulbs and wires and in addition a new type of fluorescence. The fluorescence bulbs are about two inches in diameter. When the current is off the bulb is an opaque white but it lights up in any one of four colors—coral, blue, green and creamy yellow.

Will Take Hess Back To Germany

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Rudolf Hess, former deputy fuhrer of the Third Reich, was placed on a one-hour alert basis for transfer to Neuernberg and eventual trial as one of Germany's war criminals.

The superintendent of the hospital, in which Hess has been confined for some time, was warned to expect a telephone call at any time to have the No. 2 Nazi ready for departure.

The hospital superintendent was advised that Hess would be taken to Madley airport near Hereford, and flown to London, thence to Neuernberg, where the trials are to begin shortly.

London sources believed, however, that the former Hitler aide would be the last one to stand trial since he is expected to be the prosecution's star witness in the first cases.

Major Boyington Among Rescued War Prisoners

By EIGAR BROWN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
ABOARD ADM. BADGER'S FLAGSHIP, Tokyo Bay, Aug. 30.—Commodore Roger Simpson declared today in an official report that Marine ace Maj. Gregory Boyington was among 500 allied prisoners evacuated from a Japanese "Hell Hole" where "bestial beatings were common."

Boyington, leading marine flyer in the Southern Pacific who was shot down over Rabaul late in 1943, after bagging his 26th Nip plane, was taken from the hospital at Ofuna prison camp, near Tokyo.

Simpson said that the Seattle, Wash., flyer, who was never reported as a Japanese captive, was taken aboard the hospital ship Benevolence and "sends greetings to Admiral Halsey."

The commodore, commanding a prisoner of war rescue group, said in his report to Admiral Halsey: "There never has been a blacker hell hole than the prisoner of war hospital we are now evacuating, one half mile north of the mooring."

Among the 500 repatriates processed to the hospital ship, Simpson said, were many with fractures, open (Continued on Page Two)

Point Values For Meats Are To Be Reduced

O. P. A. Announces Reductions Effective Sunday—Cheese And Butter Points Cut

CANNED MILK IS OFF RATION LIST
WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—OPA reduced today the ratio values of meats by about an average of 25 per cent and drastically cut the number of red points needed for cheese, butter and margarine.

Canned milk was removed from the new ration list effective next Sunday until September 29.

Choice cuts of beef such as porterhouse, T-bone and club steaks were slashed from eight points a pound to five. Other beef items including hamburger were lowered sharply.

Cheese And Butter Down
Choice points were cut in half for all types. Butter dropped from 16 to 12 points a pound, lowest since May, 1944.

At the same time, 29 cuts of kosher meats—15 of beef, 10 of veal and four of lamb—were reduced one to two points.

Price administrator Chester Bowles told housewives these wide reductions in point values were made possible by larger agriculture department allocations, improved distribution.

City To Take First Step To Annex Park

At Present There Is A City Appeal Before Superior Court Concerning Tax Liability

When council met in city hall Thursday Solicitor Robert M. White advised council to advertise four times the fact that the city proposes to annex Cascade Park and Cunningham park. Deshon hospital annex is located on the latter property. The city owns both plots, it was reported.

After the advertisement appears four times Mayor John P. Haven will present a petition to council asking for the annexation.

At present there remains to be decided an appeal to Superior court from the decision of the Lawrence county court that the city is liable for taxes for some years on certain plots and structures at Cascade Park. The taxes amount to approximately $25,000.

No Pre-Registration Of First Year Pupils

Because of the difficulty in making arrangements, pre-school registrations of first grade pupils will not be required in the city schools this year, according to Frank L. Burton, superintendent of the city schools.

All first grade pupils will report on Wednesday, September 5, the same as other pupils. Requirements for first grade are that the child must be vaccinated, must be six years old before February 1, 1946, and must have a birth certificate.

New pupils enrolled in New Castle schools must also have vaccination certificates, Mr. Burton said.

Further Probe Of Pearl Harbor Disaster Seen

President Reported To Favor Court-Martial Proceedings For Accused

CONGRESSMEN SAY STORY NOT COMPLETE

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—

President Truman was prepared to approve moves of secretaries of war and navy to initiate court-martial proceedings against all officers accused of any derelictions in the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Gen. Marshall May Retire

General of the Army George C. Marshall meanwhile is expected to press for his immediate retirement as Army chief of staff so he too can demand a court martial to clear his own name. Marshall was charged with four failures of duty by the official Army board of inquiry into the Pearl Harbor catastrophe.

Marshall's request for retirement has been on Mr. Truman's desk for weeks. He filed it before Japan's collapse. It is undated. If he does retire, his successor undoubtedly will be General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower.

These developments loomed in the "story of Pearl Harbor" as congressional sources expressed dissatisfaction with the incompleteness of the Army and Navy reports. There were widespread demands on Capitol Hill that the whole story be aired publicly in court martial proceedings. It is known that Mr. Truman is of the same opinion.

Silence On Roosevelt's Role
There were several omissions from the reports, which caused continued speculation in official circles. The most noted omission was a com-

Situation In Tokyo Seems Most Unreal

By WILLIAM J. DUNN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, Aug. 30.—Yokohama today is the most incredible spot on the face of this battle-scarred globe. During the past 12 hours I've been witnessing scenes that rival the most fantastic dreams of a lifetime and of sheer unreality.

For the past 15 hours, a constant stream of giant transport planes has been pouring airborne troops of the Eighth Army into the area of the Atsugi airdrome, some 12 miles west of this microphone while to the south water-borne troops have been moving ashore to aid in the occupation of this nation which, less than 30 days ago, was our deadliest enemy.

Nobody Muzzled

He emphasized that he was not going to put a muzzle on anyone. President Truman was asked to comment on charges emanating from C. Andrew H. J. specifically from Rep. Andrew J. May (D) Ky., chairman of the house military committee.

Seven Hundred Share City Playground Meet

Between 700 and 800 youngsters took part in the strenuous and highly successful all-day playground meet, the first city-wide playground event, in Gaston park Wednesday.

Perfect weather added to the enjoyment of the children who romped through games, listened to stories, or did handicraft work in the park during the day. Under the direction of Arthur Alexander, director of the city's playgrounds, the events began at 10 o'clock and continued until late in the afternoon, with a break at noon when the children ate their sandwiches and were given ice cream.

Final Games
Many of the final games were finals in a series of inter-playground competitions, with the victors coming off as city champions. Attractive letters, naming the year and the sport, were awarded to the winners, as well to youngsters who have shown outstanding leadership during the summer.

In the morning, junior mousball, tennis, volleyball, junior and senior checker games, badminton, a treasure hunt, some informal games, and horse shoes were played. Immediately after lunch, the young athletes were entertained with a puppet show by Mrs. Thomas Crenney and Violet Metta.

Afternoon Events
Afternoon events included senior mousball, jacks, more volleyball and horse shoe pitching, children's games and a story hour. Instructors responsible for the success of the undertaking which was something (Continued on Page Two)

U. S. Airmen Beaten While Jap Prisoners

By CLARK LEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

SHANGHAI, Aug. 29.—(Delayed)—Eight American airmen gave a vivid description today of their treatment by the Japanese during their detention in a war prisoners' camp at Shanghai.

They spoke calmly and dispassionately but with suppressed emotion that told more than mere words could depict.

Five of the flyers were from the navy, three from the army.

The treatment included daily beatings, hanging by the thumbs and other forms of torture. Many of the flyers still bear marks of their sufferings in the shape of bruises, movable fingers, and legs with open wounds.

The five navy flyers were part of a 12-man crew of two VPB-124 Okinawa-based Privateers downed last June 26, some 200 miles north of Shanghai.

Tells of Experiences
Describing his experiences, Aviation Machinist Mate 1-c, Walter Pollock of Chicago, said the squadron picked up a Jap convoy consisting of three destroyers, a picket boat and three cargo and two transport ships heading south.

Report British Naval Force Is At Heng Kong

(BULLETIN)
LONDON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—A Sydney dispatch to Reuters reported today that a strong British naval force had entered the port of Hong Kong, Jap-occupied British crown colony on the coast of southeast China.

Earlier dispatches reported the arrival of a powerful task force off Hong Kong to prepare for the re-occupation of the colony.

According to a British radio broadcast heard by NBS, messages have been sent ordering the Japanese commander to set in touch with the fleet. "The British representative in Hong Kong intended for four years has informed British authorities in a broadcast message that the first steps have already been taken for reoccupation," the broadcast said.

Funeral services are to be held tomorrow for James Stuller, 16, and Charles Mayhew, 15. Members of the Phillipsburg high school football team will act as pallbearers.

Funeral services are to be held in Altoona tomorrow for Blair Henderson, 15, and in DuBois today for Dale Brown, 16.

Coroner Charles Schaeffer said an inquest will not be held until three others injured in the wreck are able to testify.

Reveal Also American Bombing Of Japan 9,200,000 Families Homeless

TOKYO, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Official Domei agency files revealed today that American bombs killed or wounded 680,000 and left 9,200,000 homeless in Japan.

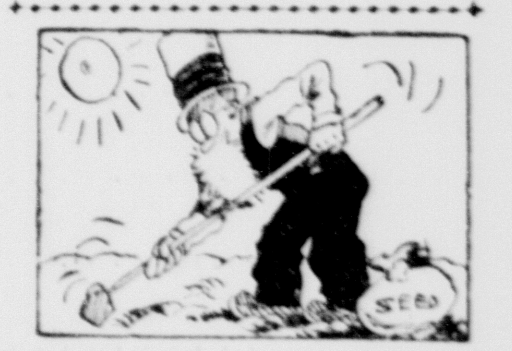

The crushing air attacks killed 260,000.

Of Tokyo's seven million population, 2,400,000 were forced to flee to safer areas.

Over the last week-end 26 civilians committed hara-kiri, 12 of them, including one woman, before the imperial palace. Domei's former editor told International News Service Correspondent Frank Robertson.

He said the number of members of the armed forces who killed themselves had not been announced.

Yokohama Is Badly Ruined

Damage Greater Than Expected — Many Persons Living In Shantytown Conditions

By JULIAN HARTT
(N. S. Staff Correspondent)

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 30.—Japanese soldiers along the hot, dusty 20-mile road from Atsugi to Yokohama turned their backs on truckloads of American paratroopers today.

But not in disrespect. Common soldiers, our interpreter explained, do not stare at their better.

Japanese officers, however, saluted as we drove by, and our officers returned the courtesy.

No Welcomes

But there were no smiles, no waves from people who peered out of windows or stood immobile and inscrutable in the doorways of homes in the villages through which we passed.

We had come to Yokohama to see the damage wrought by our bombers. We saw more than we expected.

This major seaport, once a thriving city of more than a million persons, is again the terrible shantytown that mushroomed in the wake of the devastating earthquake of 1923.

Great areas of the city are now inhabited by families living in dirt dugouts, in dusty corrugated iron lean-tos, in straw-filled lengths of sewer pipe and in upended wooden vats. Lean fare simmered over open fires.

Some Buildings Saved

Some buildings, including the new Grand hotel, where General MacArthur has established headquarters, are in good repair. Japs were busy cleaning out others, for use by allied administrators and military commanders.

Downtown Yokohama stores are open, but not crowded. People, walking single, doubly and in family groups, were too busy carting anything useable from the debris of their civilization.

Woman, protected from the heat by tattered parasols, gathered in groups, watching men building and repairing houses and barges.

Even saw two men carrying three new chic side-type latrines on a pole. One slight woman had two long railroad ties balanced on her back.

Servicemen on guard duty bowed or saluted us when we approached them, but others, just idling or hauling, ignored us.

Our driver, perhaps, best illustrated the attitude that may develop.

We gave him a cigarette.

To prove we needed it, he exhibited an empty case.

their bombs from an altitude of 300 feet.

His plane was hit three times by 40 mm shells before it finally crashed aflame into the water.

The 12 crewmen were picked up by two boats lowered by the Jap destroyers and taken aboard, where their life of torture began. Pullack noticed about 1,000 Jap soldiers swimming about in the water and presumed one of the transports was sunk during the attack.

When no officers were present the sailors repeatedly hit them in the face while their hands were tied until "we were all but knocked out and then left alone for a while."

All of them quickly became black and blue from their knees to their hips, their jaws were swollen and their injuries from the crash were improperly treated.

Blindfolded and Beaten

Pipes, clubs and baseball bats were used to attack the bodies of the flyers who were blindfolded to add to the suffering.

Brought to Shanghai on June 27, they were placed in a naval prison where the treatment was better and Pullack finally was given proper treatment by a doctor for his leg wound.

Later they were sent to Bridge-house, the notorious Japanese general detention prison, where they were placed in a cell together with three Russian men and four Russian women, a total of 12 confined in a tiny cell.

They had but one toilet and had no baths or showers for 54 days. The three army flyers were downed over the Shanghai area July 17.

Telling the tale of his own experiences, Lt. Harold H. Eifler of Chicago said that while parachuting down the Japs continued to fire at him, but he was not hit.

Eventually he was picked up by Japanese soldiers and taken to Shanghai where he was placed in Bridgehouse and subjected to continuous daily questioning while strung up by the thumbs.

His captors ceaselessly questioned him regarding his knowledge of American plans to invade the Japanese mainland and his opinion regarding the strength of the Japanese airforce in China.

wounds, concussion, burns and "generally the worst cases of malnutrition imaginable."

"Beatings were common, especially at Ofuna," he advised Admiral Hall.

Cheers of prisoners as our boat hoisted a slight bowing to our eyes," Simpson's report said.

The commodore, asking for two more evacuation ships, said the transport USS Reeves was almost filled with ambulatory cases. He also requested 300 additional units of clothing.

The white mercy ship Benovelence and the transports Reeves and Gosnell were guided to the camps on the northern part of Tokyo bay by Japanese planes. Commodore Simpson's flagship, the San Juan, provided protection for the unarmed mercy ships.

The first camp inspected was in the Amori area near Yokohama where the initial prisoner evacuations were made from a Japanese hospital ship flying half a mile north of the camp.

Each evacuee was required to fill out a special card giving full information concerning any Japanese atrocities perpetrated on them and the identity of persons responsible.

Data on all repatriates were to be made public immediately on their reception at ships or shore-based medical centers.

One hundred and thirty-four B-29 superforts dropped more than 476 additional tons of supplies today at prisoner of war camps situated at Tokyo, Sendai, Osaka, Hiroshima, Hokodate, Fukuoka and on Formosa, Korea and in Mukden, Manchuria.

Serve carrots with a bit of melted fat to which chopped parsley, chives or mint has been added. They will then both taste and look different.

with its thousands of rusted tinshanties where there were once mighty war plants. At a barricade bridge which marked the beginning of Tokyo city limits our car was stopped by members of the "Kempeitai," our names were submitted to an officer and after some palaver between the guard and the officer and our interpreter, Yamata, we were allowed a through pass.

We bumped over neglected roads, passed big Shingagawa railroad station, crowded with demobilized soldiers, and street cars jammed with uniformed men and women clad in slacks. Yamata took us to the Domei building, and there we nervously made our first public appearance.

He led us straight to the big city room, which was crowded with more than 200 busy men and girls who gaped at their first sight of American uniforms.

Foreign Editor Saji Hasegawa came forward smiling to greet us, and he and others talked without a trace of self-consciousness while a diligent photographer made pictures.

berger, commander of the occupying Eighth Army, Gen. George Kenney, commander of the Far East Air Forces, and dozens of others.

I have watched Japanese trucks manned by Japanese drivers driving American troops to various points of occupation in and about Yokohama. I've seen Japanese military lining the roads from Atsugi airfield to Yokohama, stand in salute to the passing Americans or turn their backs, as they would in the passing of their supreme ruler.

May Be Outward Display

Don't, however, believe that all the Japanese are glad to see the Americans arrive. No one can judge with any chance of accuracy what's going on in the minds behind those apparently friendly grins.

The streets of Yokohama this afternoon and tonight have been almost deserted. There's no traffic at all to compare with the normal movements of this once busy port. Aside from a few pedestrians and the military police the streets and sidewalks have been almost deserted.

Yokohama is the first large and useful city of this empire to be occupied. The occupation has been unbelievably smooth and without incident. If the remainder of the occupation goes as smoothly, the way has been opened for the rehabilitation of this nation and the formation of a policy toward long-term peace in the Pacific.

While most people recognize the call of the whippoorwill, few have seen the bird, as it rarely flies in daytime.

plete silence on the role played by the late President Roosevelt in the pre-Pearl Harbor period.

There was a single mention of Mr. Roosevelt. This was in a diary kept by Secretary Stimson. It disclosed that Mr. Roosevelt on November 25, 1941, predicted a sneak Japanese attack on the United States forces. The late president said the attack might come "by Monday—Monday, December 1, 1941. It actually came six days later."

Another important omission was the nature of the information gained by the Army on the night before Pearl Harbor and again on the morning of the "day of Japanese infamy." Shortly after Pearl Harbor, it was widely reported but never confirmed that an Australian submarine had detected the Japanese war fleet steaming toward Pearl Harbor and so warned the War department.

Sympathy For Gen. Marshall

There was widespread sympathy for General Marshall throughout Washington. This was true in military as well as political circles. However, he was accused officially of failing to keep the commanding general of the Hawaiian department, Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, fully advised of Japan's moves toward war.

The series of Pearl Harbor findings has caused more talk in Washington than even the atomic bombs. One great subject of conversation is about the different methods employed by the Army and Navy in their findings.

It was viewed as significant that while President Truman went unhesitatingly to the public defense of Marshall, there was no similar White House statement for the defense of the aging, ill former Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Some Questions

The question in Washington today is how could Forrestal and King find Stark guilty while Stimson found Marshall innocent. The investigating boards charged both with failing to send all information available in Washington to their respective commanders in Hawaii. The records showed the two top men did send about the same information to Hawaii.

There was one difference. This was on Sunday, December 7, 1941—Pearl Harbor day. On that day, shortly after noon, Marshall sent an urgent cable to General Short warning him of the possibility of attack. It was unfortunate but this warning failed to reach Short until some seven hours after the attack.

In making public the reports, President Truman stood firmly by General Marshall. He expressed his complete agreement with Stimson's view that the Army board's charges against Marshall were based upon a "fundamental misconception" of his duties as Army chief of staff.

Occupying Japan

American troops have landed on the soil of the Japanese homeland. This vanguard is being followed by hundreds of thousands of reinforcements, accompanied by bombers, tanks, the greatest armada of sea might in the world's history, and every accoutrement of war necessary for complete occupation of Japan.

If the Japanese have learned the lesson which was finally driven home by the atomic bomb, they will submit meekly and supinely to rule by General MacArthur. If there are those in the Japanese population who have not been convinced that Japan has been irrevocably defeated, General MacArthur will proceed to wipe out their delusion.

In the sober aftermath of victory, there have been misgivings over the way in which the Pacific War has ended. Like Germany in 1918, Japan has surrendered without feeling the full impact of defeat. The bulk of her armies remained intact and unbeaten, her home islands had not been actually invaded by the Allies.

Her militarists remained unrepentant and unrepentant. If they were convinced of anything, it was that Japan must prepare more thoroughly and strike with greater power a generation hence to achieve the world conquest which eluded them this time.

Under much the same conditions Germany's leaders managed to keep alive the myth of an unbeaten army, to recreate the Reich's military power, and to set the stage for another world war. There is every indication that Japan's leaders harbor similar ambitions. The successful effort to preserve the institution of the emperor is clearly part of this plan. The Japanese are hoping that America will be weak and foolish enough to give them another chance.

It lies within the power of General MacArthur to frustrate this scheme, and the way to do it is to use every means at his command to bring home to the Japanese the completeness and finality of their defeat. In the occupation of their country, in the dealings with their emperor, and in the treatment of their war criminals it must be made plain that they lost this war.

Japan must be shorn of all war-making power, and the fact must be driven home to the Japanese that their dream of conquest has ended in disaster. Any other course would entail the risk of frittering away the fruits of the victory so dearly won.

Waiting For 'Official' End

For days the people have been thinking of the war as over. In fact, practically every newspaper headline in the country read to that effect on the day that Japan officially surrendered. But legally that is a fiction—many persons are discovering when they come in conflict with those various laws whose life is to run until the "cessation of hostilities," the "end of the emergency," and the "termination of the war."

Unless the nation is to be enmeshed in a hopelessly confused situation, somebody, some day soon, must make a decision as to where the nation stands. At the moment, for instance, Americans are paying excise taxes which were to be removed when peace again came to the nation. Higher postal rates were only for the duration. Defense and war housing was strictly a war measure. The President's right to operate strike-bound plants and mines was supposed to expire six months after the "termination of the war."

These are but a few of the many complications which have been created by the defeat of both Germany and Japan. Nor does there appear to be any simple solution. The President cannot, for example, proclaim the end of hostilities because that would make the selective service law inoperative and thus interfere with continuance of the draft which he favors.

Unless Congress can find a way out of the maze the nation is in the nation may remain subject to laws which are not only unnecessary but the cause of actual hardship.

Lend-Lease Sundown

Reverberations from President Truman's abrupt announcement of the end of lend-lease are being felt sharply in foreign capitals. After pouring $40,000,000,000 in goods and cash into the nations it was aiding in this war, the United States has suddenly snapped the books shut and said, in effect: "That's all!"

The reaction abroad is comparable to the pained astonishment of a small boy reading the obituary of Santa Claus. The Attlee outfit in London is dismayed. It was planning to finance socialism for England, it seems, with American cash.

This action is more than a signal that the war is over. It is a symptom of a new atmosphere of practical realism in Washington, a promise of a hard-headed approach to foreign relations.

It is no secret that most of the Allies would have liked to see lend-lease continued for years and years. China already has requested it. Russia has asked for $6,000,000,000 in postwar credits, and General De Gaulle doubtless came over for the purpose of having the handouts increased.

England also was hopeful. The London Times admits that "it was never contemplated that lend-lease and its counterpart, reverse lend-lease, should continue in peacetime" but adds, "it is starkly evident that the end of lend-lease must pose serious considerations of all nations which have hitherto been its beneficiaries, and most of all for this country."

The Times, somewhat ingeniously, puts a finger on the main reason why President Truman decided that now is the time to stop sponging on American resources when it notes that: "No financial obligation at present arises and none may ever arise in respect to the final settlement of lend-lease itself."

That is precisely the point. The American people are not willing to continue to be open-handed on a Rooseveltian scale in rebuilding the world unless they have a definite voice in determining how the money shall be spent and what kind of a world it shall be.

It is true that the last shall be first, but it is difficult to make a Philadelphia baseball fan believe it.

WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

Army Establishments Provide Huge Problem

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—If any sign were needed that normalcy is on the way, it was supplied by the visit a congressman made the other day to the Pentagon building. It was like the first robin in early spring or the first frost in the fall—a harbinger of change.

The congressman wanted to talk to the military about the three big contingents in his district in the south. They had made bustling business for the merchants in the towns of X and Y, and the congressman certainly hoped the war department intended to leave those camps there, now that peace had come.

In this country today are 3000 military installations. They are distributed across the face of the land from Maine to California. If they were divided evenly, there would be one for each of America's 3000 counties.

Local Pressure To Rule?

Camps, training schools, indoctrination centers, military bases—these add up to tremendous military power. But if they are to be closed down or kept going, contracted or expanded, in response to local pressure, then that power can be largely frittered away.

That has happened before. In our tiny pre-war military establishments, the barracks and contingents were not located according to any strategic plan, either of national defense or logistics.

Like topsy, they just grew. Many of them were located where they were because it was the logical place to have a base or a camp during the Indian wars in the west. And because of local pressures, they stayed put there.

If we rely on the hit-or-miss of local pressures again, we cannot possibly have an adequate system of defense. Too much has happened since the days of the Indian wars. A single development—the atomic bomb—has altered not merely military science but the entire world.

Up to that time, top military men hoped that President Truman will name a civilian military commission, with a civilian as chairman, to review the whole military picture from top to bottom. Only in that way, they believe, will we get an orderly and reasonable adjustment in the years to come.

Alternative Is Seen

The alternative is disaster and waste. If you multiply 3000 military establishments by 96 senators and 43 congressmen, the answer is a conflict of pressures that completely obscures the national interest.

The only answer is an impartial commission with such a weight of authority that its recommendations will be carried out. The authority would have to come, it is probable from Congress.

Once before, in our history, such a commission broke a deadening tradition and shattered an outworn system that had blocked all hope of change. That was in 1903, when Elihu Root was secretary of war.

Up to that time, the commanding general of the armies had authority—in theory—over our military operations. In actual practice, the heads of the bureaus in the war department in Washington were supreme. They ruled like little despots from their swivel chairs, dictating as they pleased to officers in the field.

Folly Of System

Under Root's expert direction, the folly of this system was clear. He was no expert on military affairs. But he had a clear and objective intelligence, buttressed with good common sense. The Root commission recommended the law under which the general staff was created. In both World War I and World War II, the general staff has been supreme.

There are not many Elihu Roots in any time, it is true. But there must today be a level-headed American who could do a similar job in a situation far more critical and complicated than that of 40 years ago.

Only through some such objective survey will we be able to scale down the wartime growth of our military establishment and yet leave a sensible, functioning system which can be supported in peace without ruinous taxation. Only in that way will we make a start toward proper international control of atomic power.

Congress, wielding a meat ax, cannot do the job. This is a task for an impartial and yet cut away the superfluities of the past and the excesses of the war.

At first, the man fed him well and the horse did good work. But finally, the man thought that he could perhaps cut the ration a little each day without it being noticed by the horse.

This he did—reducing them gradually until at last he gave only a few scraps of hay each day.

ENJOY YOUR YOUTH

"I am twenty-one and am considered too settled by both my friends and my mother simply because I like to dress conservatively and I thoroughly enjoy my own company. I never feel the need of male or female companionship. I don't like movies, parties or other so-called youthful pastimes. How can I convince my friends that I am not dying of boredom—that I like to be different from rowdy, young groups and that I don't care for amusement, that I am perfectly contented just as I am?"

Answer: You are suffering from an overdose of smugness. What you need is a prolonged silly period. The companionship of boys and girls of your own age with the natural gay, frivolous abandon of youth.

You are, indeed, too introspective for one of your age. You take yourself much too seriously. It is good for us all to have many friends and much companionship most of the time. We all like to have our occasional sprits of solitude but being alone too much causes moodiness, conceit and a superabundance of self-sufficiency.

It is natural for a girl of 21 to desire social life—dancing, movies and all the other gaieties so important to the young. Enjoy your youth while you have it. We all have our fling sometime. So my advice is to get yours out of your system while you are young and settle down to a dignified middle age when you get there. Sometimes people who are too serious in their youth develop frivolous natures during their maturity.

It is preferable to "act your age" whatever it is. You will be old and settled for a long, long time, so be young and gay while you have the opportunity.

Struggle Develops Over Unemployment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—FOR WEEKS to come the most important and significant struggle in Washington will be between two fundamentally divergent groups each eager to determine the means by which we shall deal with the inevitable unemployment problems arising from cancellation of war contracts and reconstruction generally.

The character of our Federal fiscal policies and the national political trends may depend upon which side prevails.

ONE GROUP led by the labor lobbyist and the professional liberal, insists that the unemployment, resulting from the stoppage of war plants, will be upward of 10,000,000; that without Government aid this is not temporary but permanent; that it is not possible for private enterprise to provide the necessary jobs; that the only recourse is a huge Government-financed public works program, plus other governmental stimulation and direction of industry. With this theory not only the liberals and the labor leaders are in accord, but also the Socialists, the Communists, the spenders and the radicals generally, of all shades.

THE MEASURE around which all these elements are rallying is the Murray-Wagner so-called "full employment" bill, which avowedly distrustful of private enterprise, opens wide the door for vast public expenditures and assumes that the nation cannot survive without governmental domination and control of business.

Essentially, this is the experiment upon which the British are now launched by an extremely slender popular vote despite the large Socialist majority in the house of commons. It is the core of New Dealism, the goal toward which Mr. Roosevelt, with the enthusiastic support of the solid radical, racially resentful and irresponsible element in the country had been moving for more than twelve years. The Truman Administration now appears committed to the bill and, with certain modifications and qualifications so are a few New York bankers like Mr. Beardsley Ruml, and Mr. James P. Warburg, who is active in the CIO's Political Action Committee.

IN THE existing situation it is the policy of the principal Murray bill strategists to exaggerate the number of unemployed to threaten as did CIO leader Philip Murray, socialization of industry to displace the good faith and production capacity of private enterprise to forecast a long period of deep depression involving starvation wages and many millions of idle, though willing working men—all in order to expedite passage of the Murray-Wagner bill and promote the enactment of much other "social legislation" such as the Pepper 65-cent an hour minimum wage proposal, special unemployment compensation for veterans, etc. etc. Behind this program are massed strong political and publicity forces. And it is easy to understand how every congenial demagogue and timid politician should be attracted in this direction.

ON THE other side are the conservative Democrats and Republicans who believe that the period of unemployment due to reconversion is temporary, that, at its peak within the next nine months it will not go above six or seven million; that before the end of 1946 private industry will have made its adjustments and be unimpeded by governmental stupidity such as the Murray-Wagner bill will be in position to go ahead full speed. Their contention, as voiced by Mr. Baruch, is that once that nine-month period is over, we will be embarked upon a ten-year era of unprecedented prosperity during which there will be full employment—more jobs than men to fill them and during which, too, we shall be able not only to balance our Federal budget but to reduce our terrific national debt to manageable proportions.

ALL THIS Mr. Baruch says we can do if we use "only half the sense God gave us." Actually, he says we can do it if we use only 49 percent. But neither he nor any other balanced man believes we can do it if we proceed on the assumption that the private-enterprise system is a flop; that government must take over and direct business; that national financial sovereignty is important; that the known and obvious economic facts mean nothing; that American industry which produced so marvelously in the war cannot produce equally well in a peace period—with a demand for its products greater than ever before in our history.

Japs "Road Back" Easier Than Nazis
Navy Discharge System Not Popular
Airlines Will Acquire Transports

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Capital observers foresee an easier "road back" for Japan than Germany. The Japanese will have less to rebuild.

The atomic bomb wrecked two Jap cities—Hiroshima and Nagasaki—but conditions in Tokyo, for example, are much better than those in Berlin where Russian artillery finished off what the Allied air force left standing.

Moreover, the main occupying forces in Japan will be American, whereas there are four zones in Germany with varying policies. Japan, in the puppet emperor, also will have a semblance of central government.

Economically, the Japanese will continue to till their farms, raise rice and flowers, fish and make silk and gadgets for world trade. The enemy may in peace become a useful third-rate power.

The Navy is having trouble selling its discharge system, under which approximately 300,000 men out of nearly four million will be released by mid-December.

Most of the back feeling among enlisted men and officers stems from the fact that length of service counts more than overseas duty. Men who have been at shore stations may get out before others who have been on active service abroad.

However, it is expected that the points will be lowered once Congress's busy and determines the size of the post-war Navy, which will be only a fraction of what it is now.

Battered and buffeted OWI may come through the liquidation of war agencies with at least some of its functions continued indefinitely in peace—either under the State Department or some other auspices.

Maj. Boyington Gives Details Of Torture By Japs

By FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW

ABOARD MERCY SHIP REEVES
OFF OMORI PRISON CAMP, Tokyo
Bay, Aug. 30.—After surviving 20 months secret imprisonment and torture treatment with a baseball bat, Major Gregory Boyington, Southwest Pacific flying ace, was rescued today by an expedition commanded by Commodore Roger Simpson.

Boyington, reported dead when his plane was shot down over Rabaul in 1944, had 28 Jap planes and a Congressional Medal of Honor to his credit.

Shot Down Jan. 3, 1944
"I was shot down January 3, 1944," said the marine ace. "I had 20 mm. bullet wounds in my head, neck, arms and ear and a broken ankle."

"The main gas tank blew up. I flipped the Corsair on her back, unfastened my safety belt and dropped a hundred feet to the water, stunned."

"I chucked my shoes and clothes and treaded water. Four Japs in Zekes strafed me until they ran out of ammunition."

"Finally, I located the plane's rubber boat and inflated it okay. After a few hours a Japanese submarine surfaced near me by coincidence and took me aboard off Cape St. George and took me to Rabaul."

"At Rabaul I was blindfolded and handcuffed and my medical equipment was taken away. I was questioned all night long."

No Treatment For 10 Days
"I was given no medical treatment for ten days during which time my festering wounds festered so foully I wondered how the Jap questioners could stand the stench. On the 11th day an internecine was permitted to apply hot water and bandages."

"I was two months at Rabaul and was trucked into town daily from a camp in the outskirts for continuous grilling."

"There were twenty other airmen in the camp but I was made a special prisoner and given no prisoner-of-war privileges."

"On March 7, 1944 I was transported to a secret navy questioning camp at the country village of Ofuna, Japan. Here I was given the baseball bat treatment, standing with my hands tied while a guard slugged my back, legs and rump as hard as possible."

"My rump was so swollen it was visible over my shoulder. I was charged on the jaw approximately 200 times. Similar beatings killed other prisoners."

Transferred In April
"On April 5, this year, I was transferred to Omori camp where politeness was the order of the day."

"Our menu consisted of a combination of maize and rice tasting like chalk, supplemented by soy bean soup mostly water. Occasionally there was a treat of fish heads or seaweed."

"My normal weight of 175 pounds fell off to 110 until a wangled a job as kitchen kabin (slave) whereupon the combination of my year-old hunger plus available food ballooned me to 190."

The marine ace, who still has boundless energy but a jaundiced complexion, now weighs 160.

The first news that the famed "Pappy" Boyington was still alive came last night when other prisoners, learning of the approach of Commodore Simpson's rescue party, painted his name in large letters on one of the camp buildings.

Boyington, aged 32, will be sent to his home in Okanogan, Wash.,

GEN. MacARTHUR LANDS AT AIRFIELD NEAR TO TOKYO

fighting has practically ceased and the enemy is preparing to capitulate and surrender.

"The Japanese appear to be acting in complete good faith. There is every prospect of accomplishing the capitulation and surrender without undue friction and unnecessary bloodshed."

MacArthur Looks Trim
MacArthur looked spruce and trim as he stepped from his plane, ready to plunge into the job of personally directing the vast forces at his command.

The triumphant arrival of the supreme commander came as the climax of a day which saw thousands of airborne troops pour from a constant stream of transports landing at three-minute intervals.

At Atsugi and amphibious forces swarming ashore to take over Jap installations along Tokyo bay.

The veteran commander, at the highpoint in his long and illustrious military career, did not confer immediately but was whisked off in an army staff car to his Japan headquarters at the New Grand hotel in Yokohama, just below Tokyo.

There he will continue in his epic job of making the occupation a complete success and await the arrival of Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, hero of Corregidor, who will be the supreme commander's personal guest at the final surrender ceremony.

Occupation Forces Arrive
Even as MacArthur arrived at the airfield on the outskirts of Tokyo, the mass airborne and amphibious operations were continuing on a vast scale.

Thousands of American aircraft—including B-29s and carrier planes—darkened Nippon's skies as approximately 20,000 airborne and sea-borne troops poured quickly and efficiently into the heart of Japan in the first few hours of today's operations.

More than 7,500 green-clad paratroopers—ready for any show of resistance from the Japanese—poured from giant American air transports which began arriving at Atsugi at three-minute intervals starting at 6 A. M. today (2 P. M. Wed. PWT).

Maj. Gen. Joseph S. Sweeney, Eleventh Airborne Division, spearheaded the first movement of massed occupation troops and immediately fanned out from Atsugi taking positions 20 miles to the north of Tokyo to the east in the Yokohama area and to the south toward Hayama, site of emperor Hirohito's summer palace.

Just 15 miles to the east of Atsugi, some 13,000 American leathernecks, bluejackets and British marines swarmed over the Yokosuka naval base and the surrounding area.

No Shots Fired
The amphibious landings on the shores of Tokyo bay and the airborne operations at Atsugi were carried out smoothly without a shot being fired.

Marine combat teams quickly spiked the Jap guns of three island fortresses in Tokyo and on the富士 peninsula and looted the Stars and Stripes.

Uppermost in the minds of the first machines, doughboys and bluejackets ashore were the thousands of allied prisoners and civilian internees awaiting evacuation from the dreaded prison camps of Japan.

Tokyo Bay—Once considered an impregnable Jap anchorage was filled with ships of Arm. William X. Halsey's 376-ship armada.

About those ships were the top-ranking commanders of the U. S. Pacific fleet, who saw the Jap navy absolutely shattered during the resurgence of American power in the Pacific.

Waiting abroad the battleship South Dakota was fleet admiral Chester W. Nimitz. The Pacific fleet chief pointed out that seizure of forward Pacific bases by the navy made possible the use of atomic bombs against battered Japan.

Nimitz also disclosed that U. S. marines will land in China at an undisclosed date to operate American fleet bases in Asia as occupation forces take over former Jap-held territories.

Presents Reasons For Mine Shutdowns

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Weakness and lack of proper food today were among the reasons given for the current series of coal mine shutdowns in Western Pennsylvania.

John P. Buscetta, president of District 3, United Mine Workers, today answered protests by R. E. Jamison, president of Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association, against the number of strikes since May 1.

The miners are working six days a week and the food the miners have been getting is not of a kind to sustain them in performing that kind of labor, so the miners seek any excuse to get a holiday.

Will Dedicate New School At Ellwood Monday

Dedication Of New Parochial School Of Purification B.V.M. Congregation Arranged

(Special To The News)

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 30.—On Monday, Sept. 3, at 3:30 p. m. the Purification B. V. M. school of Ellwood City will be dedicated.

The Right Rev. Alfred Kock, O. S. B. Archabbot of St. Vincent Monastery of Latrobe, Pa., will officiate.

The Rev. Andrew Pauley, secretary of Bishop Boyle of Pittsburgh diocese, will deliver the address in English and the Rev. Sebastian Ippolito of St. Lucy church of Mahoningtown will speak in Italian. E. I. Bell, superintendent of public schools of Ellwood City, Russell Schill, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, will also give short addresses.

Many visiting priests of Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Youngstown dioceses will be present at the dedication service. The choral group of the church directed by Dominic Mundo will provide the singing for the occasion.

Opening of the school will be Tuesday morning September 4, at 9:30 with a solemn mass in the church. The benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will follow the mass.

After the church service the children, with the teaching Sisters, will go to the school and will be dismissed at 11:30.

On Wednesday, September 5, the regular school hours will go into effect, that is, school will begin at 9 o'clock, dismissed for lunch at 11:40. In the afternoon classes will be resumed at 1 o'clock and will last until 3:30.

The school has special facilities for the pupils. The school has no tuition, no taxes to be paid by the families. It is completely free. All children who live far distant from the school will have a special bus to go to the school and to come back in the afternoon at home. The children who at noon recess cannot go home for lunch will eat in a special lunch room, under the supervision of the Sisters.

A kindergarten and three first grades will open this year, but in the future a new grade will be added. The teachers of the school are the Sisters of the Pontifical Institute of Filippi, who came from the archdiocese of Newark, N. J. Besides the school the Sisters will have religious instruction for those children in the fourth grade and up who cannot attend the Catholic school, and they are in charge of the religious societies of the church. The enrollment of the children as yet is about 150.

The school is located at Third street and Lawrence avenue. Construction started in April 1944. Eight rooms for eight grades and a room for the kindergarten, kitchen and a lunch room complete the building. A large auditorium and gymnasium is now in construction.

The cost of the building at the present time is about $45,000. Now, when the Catholic center will be completed the total cost will exceed $75,000 it is stated.

Joseph's Place In God's Plan

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Joseph interpreting Pharaoh's dream.

"I will trust, and will not be afraid."—Isaiah 12:2.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Sept. 2 is Genesis 37; 39-41; 43; the Memory Verse being Isaiah 12:2. "I will trust, and will not be afraid.")

Joseph was his father Jacob's favorite son. He was Rachel's older child, the younger being Benjamin, at whose birth Jacob died. Very unwise Jacob made his favoritism plain to his other sons, and they were jealous of Joseph and hated him. Joseph, a boy of 17 at this time, was given a fine coat of rich materials and many colors which distinguished him from his brothers and made him still more hated. Joseph did not help matters by reporting his brothers' evil actions to their father, and also by telling his brothers his dreams of how the sheaf of wheat which he had bound stood upright and those of his brothers bowed down before it; and of the sun, moon and 11 stars bowing down to him. They said "Shalt thou indeed reign over us? or shall thou indeed have dominion over us?" and they hated him more.

Even his father did not believe the dream about the sun, moon and stars making obeisance to him, and rebuked him for telling it.

Joseph Goes to Find Brothers
The brothers went to Shechem to tend their father's flocks, and Jacob sent Joseph to find them, when they saw him coming they thought now was their chance to get rid of him, and they wanted to kill him; but Reuben, the eldest, persuaded them instead to throw him into a deep pit or well. They stripped him of his fine coat, and as a caravan passed at the moment, they drew him up out of the pit and sold him to these travelers for 20 pieces of silver. The brothers then dipped Joseph's coat into the blood of a kid, and took it to their father, pretending they had found it. Poor Jacob thought his son had been killed by a wild beast, and he mourned and would not be comforted.

Joseph was taken to Egypt and sold to Potiphar, captain of Pharaoh's guard, where he proved so trustworthy that Potiphar made him ruler over his household, trusting with him all he had. However, Potiphar's wife was attracted to Joseph, who was young and handsome, and when he refused her she made up a story to tell her husband that he had seduced her, and he threw Joseph into prison.

There Joseph was given charge of the other prisoners by the keeper of the prison. Pharaoh's butler and baker were also thrown into prison because they had angered their master. Each had a dream and told it to Joseph, who told the butler that after three days, as indicated by three branches of a vine as seen in the dream, he would be pardoned and again hand Pharaoh's wine. The baker's dream of three white baskets which he carried on his head with the top one full of oiled good which birds came and ate, was interpreted as meaning that in three days the poor baker would be hanged. In both cases the prophecies came true. Joseph asked the butler to remember him when he should be pardoned, but the man forgot him when he was again in favor, and Joseph stayed two years in prison.

Pharaoh Has Strange Dream
Pharaoh also had a strange dream. He saw seven fat kine come out of the river, and seven thin ones followed them, and the seven lean ones devoured the fat ones. He awoke, then dreamed again that he saw seven ears of corn on one stalk and all fat and full; then behold seven thin ears blasted by the wind, and the seven thin ones devoured the full ones. No one could interpret these dreams, and at that moment the butler remembered the prisoner who had told him the meaning of his dream, and told Pharaoh about him.

Joseph was sent for and told Pharaoh the two dreams were one, and meant that there would be seven years in Egypt when the crops would be plentiful and good, followed by seven years of famine. God had tried to show Pharaoh said Joseph what he meant to do. He advised Pharaoh to seek a wise man to gather a part of the good years' harvests and put them aside for the famine to follow.

Pharaoh was well pleased, and appointed Joseph to be the man to carry out the plan, realizing what an able young man he was. Pharaoh therefore gave Joseph the ring he took off his own finger, dressed him in fine clothes, put a gold chain about his neck, and "made him to ride in the second chariot which he had; and they (the people) cried before him. Bow the knee; and he made him ruler over all the land of Egypt." "Only in the throne will I be greater than thou," he told Joseph.

Joseph is one of the finest characters in the Old Testament. He lived uprightly, no matter what the temptations, and relied on God's help. Our Memory Verse was his life's motto: "I will trust, and will not be afraid."

Tax Slash Would Spur Enterprise In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce looked forward today to reductions of state and federal taxes in 1947 in the hope of stimulating industrial expansion in the state in postwar years.

Dr. Leonard P. Fox, tax expert for the chamber, said a program was being considered by the organization for study by the state legislature and Congress.

He pointed out that while industry has been called upon to provide "full employment" there has been no related demand from Federal officials for a tax slash to free funds for business expansion.

Fox indicated reductions of corporate taxes would be proposed to lawmakers at Harrisburg and Washington in order to pave the way for decreasing individual income taxes.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

negative belief in the adequacy of private enterprise, insists that this business of providing jobs is a task the Government must take over. This is an idea repugnant to American principles far more in harmony with the totalitarian doctrines of the dictators. Certainly, in view of the failures of the Roosevelt Administration to cure its depression by action along these lines, it is one upon which we should not further venture except as a last resource.

Under the circumstances, it is discouraging to have Secretary of State Bernes endorse the Murray-Wagner bill, even if he does say that he has not had time to read it thoroughly. His explanation of how our foreign policy is tied up in this internal blemish seems a little strained.

The importance of Mr. Bernes' statement is that it reflects the administration position and sustains the contention that Mr. Truman's press conference declaration of "employment" meant that in June when asked about Truman said he, like Mr. Roosevelt, did not had time to read a hard bill for a political purpose.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUDDLES

to higher fees and labor costs, the government left consumer prices unchanged and paid the increase to the dairyman. The same thing applied to other dairy products, bread and bakery goods, canned fruits and vegetables, peanut butter, sugar, lard and certain other products.

Just how this device could serve to check inflation nobody has ever undertaken to explain, as the same amount of money was circulated among producers as if they had raised prices to consumers. One effect, which was psychological—and incidentally political—was to keep the cost of living index from mounting too rapidly, thereby encouraging demands for wage increases. Any serious increase would be resisted also by householders, who are also voters.

What this subsidy device amounts to, as noted by many Congressmen from food production areas, is that the government has been helping to carry the family budget in a time when workers have enjoyed their greatest income in all history. The device is a subsidy, of course, for the subsidy comes out of the withholding taxes and personal income taxes as well as out of corporation taxes.

It has occurred to some of the more practical administration leaders that the United States Treasury in peace time cannot stand the strain of from one to two billion dollars in subsidies, with a tax load discouraging both to business and workers. And it also has come to them that some natural adjustment will have to take place in the price of farm products following the end of the war unless we are to continue indefinitely to meet demands for more and more subsidies.

It will take a considerable amount of ingenuity and courage to halt this subsidy program, but the problem will have to be met, for the reason that the subsidy plan is economically unsound.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

We parents reveal our worst human frailties. We know that in the long run he will, like all other forms of living creatures, tend to do and do again what promises more pleasure than pain, and to avoid doing what promises more pain than pleasure. That our basic problem of control, therefore, is to help him gain satisfaction from doing what he should and discomfort from doing what he shouldn't.

We tend to do this poorly by making sure that instead of his getting satisfaction from doing them, he gets discomfort. We punish him, whether by yelling at him or by giving him bodily pain or some other physical discomfort.

Parents Inconsistent

We tend to do this poorly because we are so inconsistent. Unless we discipline ourselves rigidly to follow a definite plan, we will spank him once for what he is forbidden, or just yell at him, or do nothing, when he does the same thing the next several times. Our word is not dependable then. How are we to expect it to be respected? Unless we do discipline ourselves to follow a carefully thought-through plan strictly, how we happen to feel at the moment may determine whether the child's forbidden act is met by discomfort to him or not and the nature and intensity of this discomfort.

Did it ever occur to you that our degree of consistency in the last analysis, is a measure of our integrity? When we let go by a number of times unpunished the child's one act for which we already had punished him, we dramatize to him our inconsistency, our lack of good self-management, our want of normal integrity, in short—even though we don't like to admit it.

Varied Dealings

When with the young child we don't clearly and consistently draw the line between the way we deal with him to teach him to respect our forbidding and the way we deal with him to win his co-operation at according to our requests or positive suggestions, we also prove our lack of consistent planning and self-discipline.

Be the child over six or so and we find it workable and necessary to apply punishment occasionally to make him do what he knows he should, such as some regular jobs about the home. We also may be very inconsistent and allow ourselves to scold interminably or to reveal ugly emotions in all sorts of childish ways, and in vain. My bulletin, "How to teach the child to help at home," may be had for postage in a self-addressed stamped envelope sent me at 235 East 45th St., New York City.

The only difference among us parents is that some of us are more frail than others. None can claim to have attained perfection. Nevertheless, all of us, by taking thought, being guided by good common sense, and ability to put ourselves in our imagination in the child's place, and then disciplining ourselves to follow the principles and plans we have arrived at, can truly improve as parents.

City Taxes Imposed On Variety Of Items

CHICAGO—Cities are supporting themselves with new taxes on everything from sewer rentals to bowling alleys, and garbage collection to carnivals.

A recent survey of the American Municipal Assn. disclosed a wide variety of miscellaneous sources of revenue, the Public Administration Clearing House of Chicago reports. Other sources of income are parking meters, charges for special police services, taxicabs, buses and business licenses.

Democrats Urge Special Session Call By Governor

Minority Group Urges Extra Session To Consider Seven-Point Program

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—(INS)—The Democratic minority bloc in the state legislature called upon Gov. Edward Martin today to summon an extra session of the General Assembly before mid-September to consider a seven-point program embracing full employment and aid for veterans.

The Democrats urged a "GI Bill of Rights" legislation authorizing discharged veterans to vote even if they were unable to register prior to the election, boosting maximum unemployment compensation benefits to $25, a specific post war building program, elimination of the public assistance judgment bond and liberalization of workmen's compensation.

The demands were voiced by Senate Minority Leader John H. Dent, of Westmoreland; House Minority Leader Miriam C. Andrews, of Cameron; Whip Edward J. Coleman, of Lackawanna; and House Whip James E. Lovett, of Westmoreland.

"Action by the state governments is necessary to coordinate the nationwide movement for full employment," the lawmakers declared in a statement issued by the Democratic state committee.

They also claimed the commonwealth lacked "soldiers' aid legislation."

Urges Motorists Exercise Safety

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Revenue Secretary David W. Harris urged motorists today to "curb enthusiasm and emphasize safety" during the holiday week end.

"The first real holiday period since Pearl Harbor is just ahead," Harris said. "Curb enthusiasm and emphasize safety and there will be no Labor Day traffic tragedies in Pennsylvania homes."

YOUTH FATALLY BURNED

HONESDALE, Pa., Aug. 30.—(INS)—Fifteen-year-old Arthur Lillie, of Narrowsburg, N. Y., died in Memorial hospital at Honesdale today of burns sustained at Narrowsburg when he stepped on high tension wires after the lines had been sheared from a pole.

The youth stepped on the wires when he alighted from a car to investigate the accident which had torn the power lines from a pole.

Spinning and weaving are now taught at a government school at Kenya, East Africa.

Reports 1500 Allied Prisoners Rescued From Jap Camps

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Commodore Noel M. Boone, in a direct report to the American people from the battleship Iowa in Tokyo bay, declared today that some 1,500 allied prisoners have been recovered from "indescribably awful" Japanese prison camps in the Tokyo-Yokohama area.

"The Japanese," said the chief fleet surgeon in an ABC-recorded broadcast, "have been barbarous. We can't understand why we should call them human beings."

Meanwhile, ABC correspondent Jack Hooley, reporting on conditions in a Jap camp located just 200 yards from the Nippon steel works outside Yokohama, said:

"Illness seems to have antagonized the Japanese. One man, with a temperature vouchered for by a British doctor prisoner as 104 degrees, was made to work until he literally died."

Hooley said that for minor infractions of rules, "other men were forced to sit in the sun, holding a bucket of water overhead at arms length. When they collapsed, they were beaten and forced to resume the torture."

The British doctor in this camp, Hooley said, was forced to stand aside while "the Japs carried out medical experiments, with the prisoners as guinea pigs."

Mailman Given Fine Tribute

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 30.—(INS)—There was an extra spring to his step and a wee bit wider smile on his face today as Mailman Milford (Babe) Adams made his rounds.

Thirty-nine wives, mothers and sweethearts of men in the armed forces to whom "Babe" has almost reverently delivered mail during the war years, "thanked" him from the bottom of their hearts.

They interrupted his rounds with a surprise party, presented him with a home baked marble cake, a pen and pencil set, seven silver dollars and a chorus of "happy birthday" for his 41st anniversary.

Lumber Estimator Fatally Stricken

WARREN, Pa., Aug. 30.—(INS)—Wayne N. Cheney, 78, of Jamestown, N. Y., sat down for rest while estimating a timber stand in Brokenstraw township in Warren county.

Turning to his companion, John Cochener, he remarked he thought he was having a sunstroke. A few minutes later he wrote in a memorandum book:

"If I die, it will be heart failure."

Cochener later found Cheney dead and walked four miles to Youngsville to report the death.

Coroner Ed. Lowry today issued a certificate of death from a heart attack.

Jobs At Hospital

SHARON, Aug. 30.—Announcement of the coming construction of a veterans hospital at Camp Reynolds has brought a flood of inquiries to Frank D. Bowman, local office manager for the Veterans Administration, he said today.

Several dozen discharged servicemen have called at the office during the past 24 hours to inquire what procedure is necessary to obtain employment on the $11,000,000 federal project when construction gets under way some time late this year.

Lieut. Matzke Is Given Assignment

Navy Chaplain Who Was Ordained
Here Returns From Service In Pacific

(Special to The News)
U. S. NAVAL AUXILIARY AIR STATION, VERNALIS, Calif. — Lieut. Robert A. Matzke, chaplain corps, USNR, 28, has been assigned as chaplain of the naval auxiliary air station, Vernalis, Calif., following a long tour of duty in the Pacific.

Chaplain Matzke, who has been in the navy more than three years, served aboard an escort aircraft carrier when the ship launched strikes against Guadalcanal and the Solomons. He also participated in battles for Tarawa, Kwajalein and Saipan.

He was ordained in May, 1942, at the First Christian church, New Castle, Pa., under Rev. G. S. Bennett.

The auxiliary station, to which Lieut. Matzke has been assigned, specializes in training pilots and aircrewmembers for the navy's carrier-based type of aircraft. The station is often the last "statewide" phase of operational training for these men before they join aircraft carriers in the Pacific.

Humming with activity 24 hours a day, the Vernalis base is the only station in the Twelfth Naval District which has a catapult for practice shipboard take-offs, arresting gear for simulated carrier landings, and the equipment for an extensive program of night flying.

Governor Warns People Of State On Candidates

LAURELTON, Pa., Aug. 30.—INS Pennsylvanians have been warned by Gov. Edward Martin to beware of "the breast-beating candidate who is always offering you something for which in the long run you must pay."

"Politicians and candidates go up and down the byways and the main streets promising us roads, school houses and hospitals, but they get the money to pay for them from you," he told a Republican meeting last night at the Laurelton fair grounds.

"Let us get down to brass tacks and cold facts when we consider public improvements," he stated. "Do we really need the improvement? What will it cost? Where is the money to pay for it coming from?"

Governor Martin, pointing to a national debt of $238,000,000,000, asserted "the time has come when we must demand more economical federal government."

He said there was "enormous confusion" in the federal government. "There are so many complicated directives that the people cannot understand them or comply with them," Governor Martin declared.

"There must be an elimination of thousands of federal employees, overlapping bureaus and annoying commissions," he added. "We must, immediately, go back to a government of laws and not of men."

Mercer County Plans For Loan Drive In October

SHARON, Aug. 30.—Mercer county bond leaders today put in motion preliminary plans for the Victory Loan, last organized bond drive of its kind planned by the government to be held from October 29 to December 5.

While the county's quota is as yet undetermined, it is expected that its share of the $11,000,000,000 national goal will be approximately $6,000,000. Some $2,000,000 of this will probably be in "E" bonds.

John S. Boycroft, Jr., and Judge George H. Rowley will again serve as chairman and co-chairman, respectively, as they have in the last six drives, in which more than $60,000,000 worth of bonds was sold.

In a statement announcing the date and goal of the campaign Treasury Secretary Fred M. Vinson explained that despite the end of the war the government still needed huge amounts of money to meet costs of mustering out pay, redeployment of soldiers, hospitalization and other expenses incident to the war.

FREAK TOMATOES FOUND IN ILLINOIS

BELLEVEILLE, Ill.—Nature, in one of her pranks, has arranged a strange vegetable marriage which has so far stumped agricultural experts. Two potato plants in the garden of Mrs. Anna Schoenborn are bearing tomatoes.

Mrs. Schoenborn says she planted the potatoes in March and the tomatoes in May and that she made no attempt to graft the plants. L. F. Lentz, high school agriculture instructor, said the tomato and potato plants are related, "like second cousins," but that cross pollination is an impossibility. He said it is just another freak of nature.

Noted Blind Man In City

Dr. Walter Kallenbach, Leader In Welfare And Inspirational Work In Nation Here

Rev. Walter D. Kallenbach, Ph. D., the D. America's No. 1 Blind Man, who has arrived in New Castle, currently engaged in rehabilitation work for the government among wounded war veterans in army general hospitals throughout the United States, will conduct a series of services at the First Baptist church.

At the request of the government he has evolved a five-point program calculated to restore confidence and hope not only to soldiers blinded as the result of their war service (for of these there are only about 1000, he says) but to other wounded soldiers of whom there are so many thousands.

Speaks To Wounded
Since January he has spoken to 100,000 wounded men in hospitals from coast to coast. "No tin cup but a career," he tells them and gives his record of achievement since he was blinded in a hunting accident at the age of 22.

He spent two years in a hospital, seven months of that time paralyzed, was operated on 25 times and came out of the hospital with a philosophy that has inspired him to a record of achievement that places him among the country's "first" on an amazing variety of counts. "It isn't what I've lost, but what I have left," he said and set out to show what he could do in spite of his blindness.

Out at San Diego naval hospital he spoke to 13,000 wounded men at one time, carrying his message of practical encouragement right out of his own experience. Then to Mitchell field and to St. Albans hospital where he worked with 7000 men.

Carries On Remarkably
Dr. Kallenbach finished four years work at the University of Virginia in 2½ years and made Phi Beta Kappa, now holds two doctorates. He does his own typing, has written nine books, four of them best-sellers. He plays golf in the low 90's, bowls and swims.

In June he was made president of the National Association for the Advancement of the Blind, is the Lions club international ambassador of good will. He is currently working on a 10-point program for the 600,000 civilian blind people in the United States. As a hobby he grows roses and has been made national councillor at large for the American Rose society.

While in New Castle, he says, he plans to get in touch with Professor Charles G. Lindner, rosarian of the Men's Garden club.

Would Wear Dog Out
Asked whether he had ever considered a seeing eye dog, Dr. Kallenbach says "I'd wear the dog out. It would end with me looking after the dog instead of having him watch out for me." He estimates that he has traveled almost a million miles by air, 40,000 to 50,000 per year and has "never been lost yet."

Slight and dapper Dr. Kallenbach is proud of his distinction as the best-dressed blind man. His veterans' program includes teaching the man how to select a tie for color with matching socks by the feel of the materials.

While in New Castle, Dr. Kallenbach will speak each evening except Saturday at 7:45 at the First Baptist church.

He is listed in "Who's Who in America" and is one of the few Americans listed in "Who's Who in the World."

State Red Cross Workers In Japan

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 30.—(INS)—At least eight American Red Cross workers from Pennsylvania today were believed to have landed in Japan with MacArthur's occupation forces.

Manager Ramone S. Eaton of the eastern area headquarters said the Pennsylvanians were among 86 American Red Cross men scheduled to work with our troops on Nip territory. They took with them last-minute messages from home for the troops, and clothing and comfort supplies for liberated American prisoners of war and civilian internees.

The Red Cross representatives were scheduled to maintain round-the-clock service at airstrip cantinens, evacuee centers and hospitals as well as staff recreation centers, information booths and nurseries for internees' children. They also will make cash grants to liberated persons in need of financial assistance, Eaton said.

Lake Titicaca, between Bolivia and Peru, is the largest lake in South America.

ELLWOOD GIVEN ASSURANCE OF GOVERNOR'S AID

Replies To Criticism Of His Speech In Ellwood City On August 22

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Residents of Ellwood City were assured today by Gov. Edward Martin that he would do everything possible to keep Pennsylvania industries in the commonwealth.

The governor made the promise in reply to a telegram from Sam G. Neff, president of local 1220 United Steelworkers of America, Ellwood City, criticizing the chief executive for his speech August 22 at Ellwood City in which he indicated the National Tube company plant may be moved to Gary, Ind.

"May I assure you," he told Neff in a letter, "that I am in possession of confidential information regarding the Ellwood City plant of the National Tube company as well as other industrial establishments of Pennsylvania."

Pennsylvania as well as other northeastern states faces a critical problem as a result of the determined efforts on the part of certain leaders to move industry to the south and west.

"I am sure that when you and your members realize the seriousness of the situation you will be glad to cooperate. I sincerely solicit your wholehearted support in this important matter."

"Bombshell To Ellwood"

Neff charged the governor "made certain allegations concerning the future well being of our city in substance."

"You alleged that, based upon a statement of Irving S. Olds, chairman of the board of directors of the United States Steel Corporation, the National Tube company plant in our city possibly would be moved to Gary, Ind., the telegram stated."

"The effect of this statement has been a bombshell to business and the continued confidence of the people for a prosperous future for Ellwood City."

If the facts supporting your statement were of no greater import than that of a general statement made by Mr. Olds, then I believe you have with reckless, irresponsible, unthinking speech or with malicious intent to coerce and intimidate labor, acted in a fashion unbecoming that of a governor of Pennsylvania.

"If the facts underlying your allegations were of a more authoritative nature than those already alluded to, I ask you on behalf of the steel workers of Ellwood City to clarify the situation immediately."

BIRDS NEST CAUSE OF SHORT-CIRCUIT

THE DALLES, Ore.—(INS)—F. L. Stephens, lineman, had to climb every pole between The Dalles and Deschutes river to locate a mysterious Western Union short-circuit. He finally found it. Brushing a "spider-web" off he found it made of thin copper wire. A bird was either building a modernistic nest or carrying on experiments in electricity.

NOSSES KNOW

In the summer time it is easier to find insanitary places than it is in the cold weather.

Chicken coops usually begin to offend our noses when summer comes.

People do not seem to like to have a chicken coop in the vicinity. It smells up the whole neighborhood, especially on hot evenings.

We need all the chickens and cows and pigs we can get but the city is not a good place to raise them.

Public sentiment will perhaps do away with chicken coops just like it did with pig pens.

We like bacon and eggs but pigs and chickens do not make good neighbors.

Bad smells usually mean trouble. Our noses know.

Bar Employees Of City From Doing Odd Jobs

ALTOONA, Pa., Aug. 30.—During the war it became the practice of employees of the city government in this city to take odd jobs outside of their regular employment and to make a little extra coin. By degrees of city council, this is ended, except by permission in special or emergency cases from the head of the department in which the employee works.

Mayor H. A. Brumbaugh introduced the resolution which council adopted. It provides that on or after September 15, no regular city employee shall be permitted to engage in any other work unless a special permit is given. The resolution states that "this action is taken in order that the unemployed of the city may find acceptable work or employment."

Sees Six Million Probably Jobless By End Of Year

War Mobilization Director Snyder
Tells Congress Of Prospects
For Unemployment

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—War Mobilization Director John W. Snyder told Congress today that there probably will be six million persons jobless by the end of the year and eight million by early spring when large numbers are discharged from the armed forces.

Snyder made his estimate before the House Ways and Means committee in urging approval of the unemployment compensation bill providing benefits of $25 a week for six months.

"No other single measure now before Congress is more vital to success in easing the shock of post-war readjustment," he declared.

Two Million Out

Snyder said the number of persons unemployed today could not be estimated but before he made his appearance the War Manpower Commission announced that two million war workers have been released since the Japanese surrender.

"The inescapable fact is that we face a temporary period of severe unemployment," Snyder told the committee. "The volume and duration of the unemployed are not imminently fixed. We can minimize it by speeding reconversion. In the meantime, we can help these workers, and at the same time benefit the country as a whole, by an adequate unemployment insurance program."

Cites Needs

The war mobilization and reconversion chief termed state unemployment laws inadequate. Present unemployment compensation systems cover only about thirty million of the fifty-two million gainfully employed persons, he said.

Snyder declared that the absence of unemployment insurance protection for the two million 900 thousand Federal employees is a "glaring gap" in the unemployment insurance systems. He said benefits also must be provided for the two million employees of small firms and 200,000 members of the U. S. Merchant Marine.

YOU can help
this army move

An army may move on its stomach, as Napoleon said, but when it comes down the gangplank these days, it moves pretty much by mouth and ear. Its first thought seems to be to talk and listen, by telephone, to the folks at home.

Long distance calls, most of these; and when they come by the boat-load, there just aren't enough operators or lines to put them through as speedily as we'd like to.

Will you help? You'll be giving the returning veterans a big lift if you will. And all you need do is follow these four easy suggestions:

1. Make only necessary long distance calls, regardless of the time of day.
2. Keep all calls brief.
3. When the operator asks you to limit your call to five minutes, remember that she is doing so only because the long distance line you want is crowded.
4. Continue to "save seven to ten for service men" but give them every break right around the clock.

Pomona Grange Hears Graham

Congressman Discusses Post-war Conditions At County Session At East Brook

GRANGERS HAVE SOME CONTESTS

Lawrence County Pomona grange held its regular meeting at East New Castle grange on Wednesday, with Worthy Master W. H. McCullough presiding.

The address of the day was delivered by Congressman Louis E. Graham, who spoke on Our Post War Problems. After mentioning a number of external matters which have affected us in this war, he then pointed out forms of government of some of our allies stating that we are really wedged between State Nationalism and Communism. We must beware lest we become involved in the same type of government.

We have a task in the occupied territory which may not be completed in twenty-five years. Our most appalling thing with which we have to deal is the thousands of drifting emaciated children. They are the future of the world and must be guided mentally, physically and spiritually. Thus our missionary efforts more good can be accomplished in those occupied lands than all diplomats, treaties, charters or laws.

America has never failed; we can't be defeated if we have the right spirit. We have moved into a new age, a new era. We must adjust ourselves; must be alert, awake.

What can we do to save ourselves? 1—We must take a keener interest in our national government. 2—Must beware of pressure groups. 3—Must not be misled by propaganda. Do your own thinking, be individual, use your own initiative. 4—States must reclaim former power. Don't depend on national government for aid—centralize your own community. Be American and remain American.

In conclusion Graham retorted us of lack of spiritual growth in our country. Less than one half our population are on the church membership. Are we going to forget our spiritual realities? Are we forgetting family prayers and Sunday observance? Are we desecrating the Lord's Day with our frivolities. We must respect and maintain the religious foundation upon which our nation was established. We cannot go forward without God.

Morning Period
The morning period of Pomona was devoted to business of the organization with Subordinate and Juvenile grange reports.

Dale Currie of East New Castle grange extended words of welcome with Lecturer Helen Boak responding.

Helen Workley, juvenile deputy, introduced juvenile's matron of the various groups who presented the following program. Those taking part from Westfield juvenile were Gail and Dick Gwin, Roberta and Evelyn Spears, Dale McClain; Willard—Ruth Fawcett, Martha Willard, Harold Jenkins; East New Castle—Patty Currie, Loreta Burie; Pleasant Hill—Gail and Kay Brown; Verda—Turner, Thelma Frazer, Genevieve, Martin, Lillian Brown, Norma Jean Brown, Claire McCracken, Bobbie Johnson, Marion Martin.

Winners of the Talent Festival of the various subordinate granges entertained Pomona at the evening session. The vocal duet selection of Big Beaver grange was the winner.

A second feature of the evening program was the Spelling Bee with Mrs. John Robinson of East Brook grange as winner.

A concluding feature of the evening program was the conferring of Fifth Degree on eighty-three candidates from the subordinate granges of Lawrence county. The Lawrence County Pomona Degree team with W. H. McCullough in charge conferred the degree.

The next meeting of Pomona will be held in Willard grange, December 1.

B. & O. To Install Radio-Telephone Service In Yard

Expect System To Be In Use In New Castle Yard By First Of October

The Baltimore and Ohio railroad has just placed an order for radio telephone equipment, the transaction marking the 100th year of progress in electric communications on the American railroads.

The radio-telephone installation ordered, and believed to be the first order from any railroad for very high frequency equipment, will be placed in the New Castle B. & O. yard and is expected to be in operation by October 1. It will be used to facilitate the operation of the freight car classification yard at that point.

The equipment will consist of a fixed radio transmitter and receiver, and of mobile transmitter receiving units installed on switching engines, and will have three main control points so that the yard of office may be in constant radio communication with the crews in charge of engines switching the trains. This will not only expedite switching under normal conditions, but will also be of special value when the weather is bad and hand signals are not easily visible. The transmitters will broadcast under specific wave-length between the 166-162 megacycle range under license issued by the Federal Communications Commission.

The Baltimore and Ohio made its first test of radio-telephone equipment in 1928. This, however, was low frequency equipment. The B. & O. made its first test of high frequency telephone equipment in co-operation with Benix Radio Division on July 27, 1944, in its Baltimore terminals, and A. S. Hunt, now chief engineer of communications and signals, said at that time that the test was so satisfactory that he expected to arrange for a permanent installation as soon as war conditions made it possible to secure the equipment. It is believed that the installation at New Castle will further prove the practicability of radio-telephone for railroad use, and that gradually it will be expanded for use on moving trains in main line service and even to communications with passengers on those trains.

Leplich, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Don Warnock, Mrs. Fern Pitzer, Mrs. C. G. Anderson and Mrs. C. H. Jewel.

Special prizes for the games were won by Mrs. Don Warnock and C. H. Jewel.

REAR ADMIRAL BADGER

Lean, bespectacled Rear Adm. Oscar C. Badger, commander of Task Force 31 which led the parade of American naval might into Tokyo Bay, last saw the majestic slopes of Fujiyama during an errand of mercy in 1933.

Then a lieutenant-commander, he was in charge of providing relief supplies for the Tokyo area following the disastrous earthquake and of evacuating thousands of American, European and Japanese refugees.

Little known to the public, this 55-year-old commander of the special occupation task force under Adm. William F. Halsey is known in the Navy as a logistics expert second to none.

And like most admirals who have won their starred flags through the driving force of their personalities and fighting abilities, this son of a naval officer has a temper to match his leathery complexion.

Before his present assignment, he commanded a battleship which led bombardments against Iwo Jima, Okinawa and the mainland of Japan. He commanded the striking group in the second battle of the Philippine sea.

Holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor while aboard the battleship Utah, Badger in 1936 commanded the cruiser Indianapolis which carried the late President Roosevelt to the Buenos Aires conference. He attended the Quebec and Cairo conferences as logistics adviser to the combined chiefs of staff.

All-Stars Will Battle Packers In Lid Lifter

Starting Lineup For Green Bay Packers Tonight About Same As Year Ago

CHICAGO STADIUM SCENE OF TUSSELE

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—(INS)—The champion Green Bay Packers' starting lineup against the college all-star team tonight at Soldier Field appeared likely to be practically the same as that which started against the New York Giants in the league title game last December.

One of two changes may be made but more than this was regarded as improbable. One change might place Joel Mason at right end instead of Harry Jactinski, who has been slowed up by an ailing leg. Ivy Comp was believed sure to go in at left half, but if his ankle injury still bothers him he may be replaced by Roy McKay, former University of Texas athlete.

Starting at right half will be Lou Brock, the former Purdue star, with Harry Craig at quarter and Ted Fritsch at fullback.

Hutson To Start

Don Hutson, the starting left end, will be making his fourth appearance in an all-star game. When Hutson goes out Clyde Goodnight, star at Tulsa, will take his place. Capt. Charley Trippi of the University of Georgia will lead the collegians on the field and it was said that Tommy Harmon, former University of Michigan all-American halfback, would be able to get into the game despite an injury suffered last Saturday.

Falcon Tentin

Plans for the coming tennin season will be discussed. Election of new officers will take place. This is the fourth season for the Falcon league and they hope to make it the biggest yet. Any who care to bowl tennins this fall and winter are asked to be present at the meeting.

CHURCH GOLFERS TO EAT
The New Castle church golf league members will be given a feed tonight at Castle Hills course by Mrs. Ethel Ludwig following the matches. It was announced. All members of the league are invited.

Bucknell Gridders Are Hard At Work

Spirited Battles Taking Place For Starting Posts On Bucknell Eleven

LEWISBURG, Pa., Aug. 30.—(INS)—Bob McClintock, Greensburg, and Vernon Gaskell, of Grapeville, former Jeannette high school football captain, were bidding today for the halfback job on Bucknell University eleven.

Also after the post are Bill McKay, of Philadelphia, and Charley Hall, of Shamokin. Gaskell's elusiveness is his specialty and he has shown much staying power in scrimmages. He is also a deft forward passer.

McKay, who played at Frankford high school in Philadelphia, was at Temple University for half a season before entering the navy. Precise timing has been the clue to his success. He weighs 170.

McKay and Gaskell got their chance when Hall, a prime contender at the halfback spot, was sidelined. Hall, a few pounds heavier than McKay, combines speed with passing skill.

McClintock is light—160 pounds—and very agile. Coach Woody Ludwig has just two weeks to select the man who will take over the crucial tailback position.

Fight Manager Defies Edict

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 30.—(INS)—Prizefight Manager Willie Gilzenberg on Wednesday defied the edict of Abe Green, president of the National Boxing Association, that all NBA titleholders who have been disqualified from the services must now defend their titles.

Gilzenberg is the pilot of Freddie Cochran, NBA welterweight champion, who recently was discharged from the navy. He said he would not sign Cochran for a title fight "until he was good and ready."

NBA "froze" for the duration all titles of boxers in the armed forces.

Fannins Arrange For Double-Header

The Fannins baseball team will play a double-header at Marshall field Sunday for the benefit of "Bud" Pander, one of the Fannin players who had two ribs cracked in a game at Union High field with the St. Mary's team.

In the first game Sunday the Fannins will play the Ellwood City V.F.W. Juniors at 2:30 o'clock, and in the second game will play the South Side Legion team of the American Legion Junior league. It was announced by Frank Fannin.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Jockey Joe Renick today began serving a ten-day suspension, imposed by Belmont Park.

Browns Upset Detroit As

Divide Twin Bill

By LES KONKIN

(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—You might expect that after bowing over the league-leading Chicago Cubs three times in a row, the St. Louis Cardinals would have easy pickings in Cincinnati—because the Cubs had no trouble in winning 17 out of 18 from the Reds this season.

But the second-place Cards find to their sorrow today that using the Reds as a yardstick is about as foolish as trying to predict the outcome of a football game on the basis of comparative scores. In trouncing the Red Birds twice, the Reds have dropped them 4½ games away from first place and have practically ruined their hopes of winning the National league flag.

Cubs Top Pirates

Yesterday, Vern Kennedy of the Reds outpitched Bill Donnelly, winning 3 to 1. Buster Adams' 19th homer constituted the St. Louis offensive.

Meanwhile the Cubs gained another full game on the Cards as Ray Prim and Hy Vandenberg blanked Pittsburgh, 2 to 0. Heinz Becker and Len Merullo drove in the Chicago runs off Nick Strincivich.

The Brooklyn Dodgers strengthened their hold on third place by noosing out the Phillies, 2 to 1, on Frenchy Berdecary's double in the eighth. The superbas have won 14 out of 15 from the Quakers this season.

Detroit and Washington reverted to their slaphdash ways in the American league race, which began to resemble a three-cornered contest with the champion St. Louis Browns climbing to within four games of the lead by noosing out the Tigers in the eighth inning 5 to 4.

Washington advanced to within one game of the Tigers by gaining an ever break in a two-night twin bill with the Athletics, but the Senators didn't look like any bargain. They were presided over by the opener by a 3 to 1 score when catcher Greek George of the A's let in two runs in the eighth inning with an error and a wild throw on the same play. This gave Dutch Leonard of the Nats his 16th victory of the season.

In the nightcap, Phil Marchildon making his first major league start in more than three years, and Joe Berry pitched the Mackmen to a 2 to 1 victory.

Vic Johnson, rookie southpaw of the Boston Red Sox, won a 1 to 0 mound duel from Bill Zuber of the Yankees.

Shenango Pottery Softball Champs For 1945 Season

Eugene Kendra And Greg Ross Stars As Pottery Defeats Bombers 4 to 0 For Title

POTTERY PLAYERS ACT LIKE CHAMPS

This is V-S (victory softball) day in the Shenango Pottery, following the stunning 4 to 0 defeat handed the DeCarbo Bombers last night at Deshon Annex field by the Pottery team, with Eugene "Gabby" Kendra pitching one of the best games of his long career, giving up four hits as he applied the reasoning busi to the Bombers. A crowd of over 2,000 witnessed the game, the largest of the season.

This is the first time a Shenango Pottery team has ever won the championship and the boys are being congratulated on all sides. It is the first championship team for Italo Amodei, the genial Shenango Pottery manager, who has guided the destinies of the team this year with rare decision.

Greg Ross Batting Star

It was the hitting of the veteran Greg Ross, just back from 38 months in the South Pacific, that won the game for the Pottery. Ross in the big third inning slammed a long Liposky pitch into left field for a homer, scoring behind Don Latimer, who had drawn a base on balls. Previous to this long homer by Ross, Leonelli had opened with a double and went to third on a sacrifice bunt by Nick Ross and tallied on a wild pitch. These three runs broke the Bombers' spirit. The Pottery added one more run in the eighth for good measure.

So effective did Kendra pitch that only one Bomber got as far as second base. Kendra fanned two men and walked two. Liposky, who had pitched six innings and walked three, just 30 batters faced Kendra.

Look Like Champions

The Shenango Pottery played like champions all evening, having no errors and playing airtight ball in the field led by Fred Wimer at third who started, as did Nickie Ross at short. Nahas in roving short and Latimer at second. The Pottery had to use a patched up lineup. Bus Davi and Sanders being absent, grandy Ross, subbing at first, played a whale of a game, besides being the batting hero. Don Latimer, Mike Budal, Knight and Avelle did fine work in the outfield.

President of the League Joe Paor wishes to thank the umpires, the players and league officials for the fine cooperation this season in making the Industrial league a huge success, also Deshon Annex for the use of their field for the championship play.

Washington Splits

Washington advanced to within one game of the Tigers by gaining an ever break in a two-night twin bill with the Athletics, but the Senators didn't look like any bargain. They were presided over by the opener by a 3 to 1 score when catcher Greek George of the A's let in two runs in the eighth inning with an error and a wild throw on the same play. This gave Dutch Leonard of the Nats his 16th victory of the season.

In the nightcap, Phil Marchildon making his first major league start in more than three years, and Joe Berry pitched the Mackmen to a 2 to 1 victory.

Vic Johnson, rookie southpaw of the Boston Red Sox, won a 1 to 0 mound duel from Bill Zuber of the Yankees.

Jackie Westrope Under Suspension For Rest Of Year

One Of Nation's Top Jockeys Set Down For Deliberate Foul In Recent Race

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Jackie Westrope, one of the nation's top jockeys, was out of racing for the remainder of the year today as the result of a suspension imposed upon him by the California horse racing board.

The board revoked the veteran rider's 1945 license for shutting off High Sierra, the favorite, while aboard Ace Hudkins in a six-furlong race at Del Mar, August 18. Steward Chester Jones said that in his opinion the foul was deliberate, although this was stoutly denied by Westrope. He contended that his mount "lugged in" or bore over, on a sloppy track and that he couldn't hold him

Battle-Seared Destroyer-Escort Has Reached Port

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—(INS)—The battle-seared destroyer escort U. S. S. Bowers—boasting a brand new superstructure to replace the one which was gutted by a Jap suicide plane—was being outfitted today to aid the navy in policing the shrunken realms of the Axis.

With Stars and Stripes fluttering proudly above its demolished bridge on which were perched four X's flags representing a quartet of kamikaze boys who joined their ancestors, the heroic craft limped into the Philadelphia navy yard two months after it was struck off Iwo Jima.

Waiting for it was its new superstructure. It had been built by navy yard employee, with blueprints drawn up from photographs flown to the port by one of the DE's surviving officers, Lt. E. A. F. Meagher, of Seattle, Wash.

The new 24-ton assembly was lifted by a huge crane and in 20 minutes was settled in place after workers removed the remaining blackened and rusted parts of the old bridge and deckhouse.

Aboard the craft while the operation was in progress were the remaining uninjured crew members and the only officer inside the ship who was not a casualty, when the Jap crashed into the bridge, Ensign W. G. Word, Jr., of Amarillo, Texas, assistant gunner officer.

Officers Are Casualties

Of the seven other officers aboard decks when the attack occurred, four were killed, and three wounded. The ship's skipper, Lt. Comdr. Charles F. Hightfield, of Duluth, Minn., was seriously burned when the plane's gasoline tank ruptured and splashed flaming fuel over the deck. The impact of the crash hurled him into the sea.

He was picked up later by two greenies, S-1s, Samuel Smiley, of East Orange, N. J., and John Cavanaugh, S-3-c of New Orleans.

The captain was hurt pretty badly and didn't want anybody to help him," Smiley said. "He told us to leave him alone and get aboard a raft, but we helped him anyway."

Four Jap dive bombers nicknamed "Vais" made the final drive at the Bowers on April 16th. Navy carrier planes patrolling the area quickly knocked down one. Guns of a nearby D-5 got a second, and the Bowers' own gunners quickly accounted for a third.

The surviving Val circled and began his low flying straight suicide run, his machine guns strafing, killing or wounding several of the Bowers' gunners. He kept coming in despite shells which exploded all around him. Just before he hit, Lt. Comdr. Hightfield grabbed a Tommy gun and began firing at the plane from the bridge.

Crashes Into Superstructure

It crashed into the superstructure. Gasoline tanks exploded and flared up. Pipes were broken and cables ripped asunder. Steam sprayed crewmen, many of whom were forced to leap overboard with clothes afire.

Then, second later, a 500-pound fragmentation bomb which snapped loose from the plane exploded, raining steel from stem to stern. Many men on the open decks were cut down on the spot, dead or wounded. Shrapnel holes pocked the topside.

The Jap pilot's final score: 65 dead, 40 wounded.

Word declared that Lt. Truman B. Hinkle, of Alameda, Calif., who took command when the skipper was blown overboard, "Did a superb job in directing the fire-fighting the day for the wounded. The superhuman courage he displayed gave a tremendous boost to the morale of all the men and spurred their work with renewed daring."

"The decks were strewn with mutilated bodies and the ship was afire. Every man on the Bowers accomplished heroic feats."

Most of the enlisted men salvaged souvenirs from the Jap Val. A long Jap sword which the pilot carried, they said, was broken by the crash and they made knives from the pieces. One crew member got the Jap's handkerchief, which, he said, had a circle of blood in the center, causing it to resemble the flag of Nippon.

All spoke of the battle talker, Yeoman 2-c B. J. Lejeune, who had been on the bridge giving a running account of the battle to crew members below decks. His account was interrupted by death.

Motor Drivers Given Warning

State College Instructor Warns Public Against 'National Joy Ride' Spree

STATE COLLEGE, Aug. 30.—Amos E. Neyhart, head of the Institute of Public Safety at the Pennsylvania State College, warned the American driving public today that "a national joy ride at this time will exact a high price in lives and automobile equipment."

Expressing concern lest the abolition of gas rationing furnish the excuse for careless, indifferent driving, Professor Neyhart urged drivers to exert every care on the highway, making certain first that equipment is equal to long distances at increased speeds.

The Penn State expert pointed out that wartime stresses had made every automobile a potential "death car," and proposed widespread adoption of these common sense measures to insure against accidents:

- (1) Drive on the right side of the road;
- (2) Keep in line on hills and turns;
- (3) Keep speed under control when descending steep grades;
- (4) Signal your intentions to all persons who may be affected by your acts; and
- (5) Watch for the mistakes of others, and do what you can to compensate for them. This includes the pedestrian.

Other amendments would limit the use of state motor funds to the construction of new roads and bridges, permit sheriffs to succeed themselves and permit the election of election officials for terms provided by law.
